HG220 USER MANUAL

hygger Ultra-Density Hole Air Stone Kit

hygger Ultra-Density Hole Air Stone Kit is an oxygenation device for aquariums and fish tanks. It enhances the dissolved oxygen levels in water by refining air bubbles and serves a decorative purpose.

1. PRODUCT FEATURES

- High-efficiency Bubble Refinement: Utilizing nano materials to generate dense and even bubbles, significantly enhancing oxygen dissolution efficiency while creating a beautiful bubble curtain effect, making the aquarium landscape more attractive.
- Easy Installation: The self-weight design ensures stability at the bottom, preventing drifting due to water flow or fish movement while maintaining even bubble distribution. Suitable for various aquarium types.
- Durable and Easy to Maintain: Engineered with corrosion-resistant, high-temperature sintered materials featuring aging resistance and anti-clogging properties, ensuring high efficiency throughout long-term use.
- Multi-functional Adaptability: The stainless steel air nozzle is compatible with various oxygen pumps, making it suitable for freshwater aquariums, saltwater aquariums, and amphibious eco-aquariums. It effectively meets the oxygenation needs of diverse aquatic organisms, including fish, shrimp, and other aquatic life.

3. INSTRUCTIONS FOR USE

1. Before the first use, soak the bubble tray in water for approximately 2 hours.
2. Cut the air pipe to an appropriate length as required and connect the check and air volume control valves.
3. Connect both ends of the air tube to the air pump and the air stone respectively.
4. The suction cup clip secures the air tube to the aquarium wall; the Y-shaped shunt connector can split and merge the airflow from the air pump.
5. Clean regularly with a brush, as air stones tend to become clogged after several weeks or months of use.

4. ATTENTIONS

- For better aeration, the air stone should be soaked in water for 1 to 2 hours before use.
- Please install a check valve when installing the air pump to prevent water backflow and potential damage to the pump.
- The air pump is not included. It is recommended that the air stone be cleaned every two months to prevent clogging and maintain optimal oxygen dissolution efficiency.
- If the water depth exceeds 80 centimeters, the air pump pressure should reach 0.018 MPa, with an optimal pressure range of 0.020–0.03 MPa.

5. TROUBLESHOOTING

- 1)No airflow output: Check whether the check valve is installed backwards or the air pump power is too low.
- 2)Uneven airflow output: Adjust the air pump to the maximum setting and properly reconnect the air tube to ensure a clearer bubble output effect.
- 3)Airflow output with large air bubbles: Use the air stone for 1-2 days to restore normal operation.
